

Siblings teach families how to plan for adventure

Award-winning authors release their new book Nature's Notes:
Bite-sized Learning & Projects for all Ages

Cincinnati - July 2, 2012 - Willow Creek Press is proud to announce the release of its new title Nature's Notes, just in time for outdoor summer activities like camping and nature hikes. Sibling authors Judy Burris and Wayne Richards say, "Join us on a wild adventure of exploring creeks, witnessing woodland wildlife and catching critters! Nature's Notes is the family friendly guide for having fun in the forest."

Do you love butterflies? Learn step-by-step how to grow your own. Have you ever went to the park and then wondered what to do? Are you looking for affordable projects and activities? Nature's Notes is written for all ages, from the curious to the serious. Put it in your backpack and take it outdoors to learn about frogs, toads, turtles, snakes, salamanders, snails, mushrooms, wild flowers, insects and much more!

Judy Burris and Wayne Richards are the national award-winning authors and photographers of The Life Cycles of Butterflies and The Secret Lives of Backyard Bugs. All three of their nature books include 400-500 full color photographs. Their articles and photography have been published worldwide. Burris and Richards specialize in nature studies and insect life cycles and are popular speakers at master gardener conventions, nature preserves, schools and other educational venues.
